The South Soo City boys won the game of foot ball from Winnebago last Friday by a score of 12 to 0. Another game is scheduled for Homer Friday afternoon, in which it is thought the home boys will make a better showing.

Pueston, Texas Chronicle: Ream Field is the new official name of the aviation camp of the second provisional wing at Park Place. Notice of the official designation came from the director of military aeronautics at Washington yesterday. The camp has been named in honor of the late Major William R. Ream, flight surgeon of the British-American "flying circus," who was killed on August 24th of this year, when the machine he was in fell 150 feet, the engine having stalled. In the machine with him at the time was Lieutenant Wesley Benner, pilot. The machine was preparing to make the flight from Indianapolis to St. Louis at the time. Major Ream's home was at San Diego, Cal., where he qualified as a reserve military aviator. Rockwell Field. Major Ream entered the air service in order that he might be better equipped to deal with the problems of the aviator from the flyer's own standpoint. He made a special study of the nervous condition induced by flying at a great height and long distances, and was laying a foundation for dealing with this phase of his subject in an effort to better the general welfare of air men.

Emerson Enterprise: Harry Heikes, of Dakota City, was an Emerson caller on Sunday last. Lawrence Hingst, who left home some time ago, was found in Homer Saturday. Mrs. Hingst accompanied Mr. Taltrap to Homer after her son. They returned late in the afternoon, bringing him home with them. Herman Renze, Jr., of Hubbard, was visiting in Emerson at the home of John and Raymond Brennan the latter part of the week, and departed for Creighton University Sunday, where he will enter the military department. Chas. Wesley Harris was born near Homer, Neb., on July 11, 1892. At the age of 5 he came to Emerson with his parents and since that time this has been his home. In the year 1911, he was united in marriage to Miss Frances Young, also of Emerson, and to this union two children were born, Donald G. and Ethel May. Mr. Harris departed this life on Sunday, October 6th, after a brief illness, and the sad news as it was passed from one to another, cast a gloom over the entire community. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and two children, father and mother, four sisters and five brothers. Mrs. Harold Walter of Pender, Fredwin N., Minnie D., Joseph D., Oscar L., Milan R., Nettie L., Hazel L. and George E., who is now supposed to be on the water on his way to France. Mr. Harris was a loving father, a dutiful husband and a friend to everyone. The funeral was held from the home yesterday afternoon and was attended by a large number of sympathizing friends.

Sioux City Journal, 10th: Fred Knecht, 24 years old the son of a wealthy Winnebago, Neb., farmer, committed suicide late yesterday afternoon by jumping from the Sioux City combination bridge into the Missouri river. His body came to the surface three times, it is said,

HON. S. R. McKELVIE

Republican Candidate for Governor, will speak at the Court House in Dakota City, Neb.,

Friday, October 18th, at 1 p. m

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to come and meet the next Governor of Nebraska before sinking into its watery grave. Attempts to recover the body have proven futile. No reason can be assigned for the act of self destruction. The young man, with his father drove to Winnebago early yesterday afternoon from their farm, six miles southeast of that place. They separated after reaching town, the father going to the bank to obtain money for a trip to Oklahoma, which was to have been made today. Later the father could not find the son, and missed the car from where it had been parked. Mr. Knecht had no information as to his son's whereabouts until he received a message sent by the Sioux City police informing him that his son had been drowned in the Missouri river. It is believed young Knecht drove towards Sioux City immediately after leaving his father. Paying toll at the south end of the combination bridge, he stopped the car at a spot where the channel is deep, clambered over the railing and dropped to the water, fifty feet below. The young man was identified by letters found in the car when the police arrived at the scene. Knecht's parents came to Sioux City late last night. They stated that they knew of no motive for the deed, that the boy was eagerly awaiting a call into the national army and that his home life had been pleasant.

ROBERT E. EVANS
Republican Candidate for Congress,
Third Nebraska District.

Robert Emory Evans, the republican candidate for Congress in the Third Congressional district, was born in Pennsylvania in 1856. At an early age he served an apprenticeship in a railroad machine shop in his native state and in 1887 he went to Colorado, where he worked alternately as a machinist and miner for five years. He then returned to Pennsylvania where he attended school until ready for college. He then went to Ann Arbor, Mich., where he graduated from the law department of the University of Michigan in 1886. After graduation, he returned to Pennsylvania, where he practiced law in Pittsburgh for a time, but the call of the West was too strong to resist, and he came to Nebraska thirty-one years ago, locating in Dakota City, where he has resided and practiced law continuously ever since, with the exception of two years spent as Superintendent of the Winnebago Industrial school and four years service as judge in the district court of the Eighth Judicial district of Nebraska.

Judge Evans' family consists of Mrs. Evans, three sons and one daughter. His youngest son, Keith, entered the Navy as a volunteer shortly after the United States entered the war. His other two sons are operating farms. All of Judge Evans' ancestors were in the United States prior to the Revolutionary War. He inherited his republicanism from old Whig stock and always has been a tireless and effective worker in the ranks of his party. Judge Evans is a "bundle of energy" and his legal ability and thorough work has placed him in the front rank of attorneys in Nebraska, whose opinions on legal questions are rarely successfully disputed, and whose extensive practice is the result of well recognized genuine merit. He is an active and thorough worker and thinker and a close student of local, national and international affairs. He is a man of honor, principle and character, and a gentleman in every sense the term implies.

His thousands of friends throughout the state know that he is and has been 100 per cent American at all times, not only since the United States entered the war, but ever since Germany crossed the Belgian frontier. There has been no side-stepping nor cross-firing from him on any war condition affecting either humanity or this country. He shoots straight from the shoulder. He has been a liberal contributor to all war funds from the first, and his services as a patriotic speaker have been in almost constant demand and freely given.

WILL YOU HELP OUR BOYS ABROAD?

WHOLE NATION MOVES TO BANISH SOLITUDE

Our Heroes Are Calling From Over There—Give What You Can to Help Those From Home.

Every citizen interested in the boys of his home town now at the front, and in the brave women who equally are serving their country abroad, has an opportunity to show his appreciation of the sacrifice they are making. The opportunity comes as a result of the generosity and thought of Colonel William Boyce Thompson of New York, who has conceived and put into execution what is known as the Home Paper Service.

Under the plan, every man and woman in foreign service will receive the town newspaper, and so be kept in constant touch with the places and the people they know and love.

Every branch of the United States Government is interested in the plan. The Government realizes the importance of keeping those in the service happy and constantly in touch with their home ties and associations. Nothing is more depressing in a national emergency than the spirit of loneliness in those serving their country, and officials know that nothing can dispel this feeling more effectually than reading the home town newspaper.

Publishers of newspapers in all parts of the country—this newspaper included—have grasped with pleasure the plan outlined by Colonel Thompson, and they have agreed to co-operate in every way.

Under the ruling of the War Industries Board newspaper publishers are forbidden to send their newspapers free, even to soldiers. The newspaper must be subscribed for in the regular way, the only exception being soldiers who formerly were in the employ of the newspaper and who left that service to enlist. Colonel Thompson therefore proposes that the public in each community contribute to a fund so that the home newspaper (in our case this newspaper) may reach every man and woman now in the service of his country.

Anyone may contribute to the fund, and any sum may be contributed. It is not necessary to contribute the entire amount of one subscription. It does not matter whether the rich man sends in one hundred dollars or the poor boy or little girl sends in five cents. Each gift will be a message of love and helpfulness to the home town folks "Over There." The money will be lumped into one fund, out of which subscriptions will be entered as fast as the money is received.

Contributors who send in the full price of a year's subscription may, if they wish, designate to what particular person they wish the newspaper sent, but if the name given is already listed as receiving the paper, then the publisher reserves the right to apply the subscription to some less fortunate soldier boy or noble woman who is just as lonely for news of home and home folks.

The name of every contributor to this home paper service will be published in this newspaper, and the name of everyone entered for a subscription will be published as well as the number of those remaining whose subscriptions have not been covered.

If the amount of money received shall be more than is necessary to send the paper to every person from the town now in the service, then the balance will be turned over to the Red Cross.

The plan is endorsed by the publisher of this newspaper without any thought of profit, either directly or indirectly, but with a sincere desire to help keep the home fires burning and to send to our heroes and heroines news of our town, to keep their hearts warm for us and to let them know they are constantly in our minds.

The publisher, of course, cannot make a profit on circulation, and additional circulation such as this will be—circulation from non-purchasers sent far across the sea—can have no added value to the advertiser.

These facts are stated so that every contributor may feel that every cent contributed goes to the good cause.

The mothers of our boys are facing an ordeal with a bravery that commands respect and admiration. Here and there where tiny stars are turned from blue to gold, where anguish grips the heart, the nation stands in silence and honors the women who have given of their blood, the very bone of their bone, to their country. To them, home has lost its meaning—the soul of it has fled—there is no home, it is just a place, and no place is quite so lonely, unless it be within the hearts of those brave sons in far off France who long for just a word of home. There cannot be a man, there cannot be a woman, no, not even a child, who will fail to contribute just a little to make the hearts of these patriots lighter. Not one. Not in our town.
